THE FIRST SUNDAY AFTER THE STORM

Galveston People Could not Attend Church as of Old.

STREETS BEING RID OF RUBBISH.

Great Progress Made, but the Work Is Yet in its Infancy.

THE STRANGE REUNION OF SOME FAMILIES.

Phenomenal Stories Come from a Convent Where Hundreds of Lives Were Saved—Money Sent the Governor Not Ample.

Galveston, Sept. 17.—Sunday was not the old Sunday here. No one was reminded if it by the ringing of church bells. There were church services, but they were not attended by great crowds of people attired in their Sunday best. There were no processions of gaily dressed men and women on their way to and from church.

The Sunday closing laws were observed along the beach, but relief stores were wide open and thousands of men worked on the streets and in the stores, clearing away the debris and putting things in order. Great clouds of smoke here and there indicated that men were still busy burning the dead. The sidewalks in the downtown district were littered with all kinds of stores, put out in the hot sun that has prevailed since the terrible calamity, to dry and every one exerting himself to the utmost to begin business again.

Galveston is beginning to look like itself again. Horse cars are in operation in the downtown districts and the electric line and water service has been partially resumed. The progress being made under the circumstances is little short of remarkable.

It must not by any means be understood that the remaining portion of the city has been in anything like its normal condition; but so very great change has been wrought about, so much order and system now prevails, where formerly chaos reigned, that Galveston and the people who have been giving her such noble assistance have good reason to be satisfied with what has been accomplished in the face of such fearful odds. And, according to statements made by General Scurry, Mayor Jones, Alderman Pat Barry and other leaders, there is equally good reason to believe that the progress of the work during the week or so will be even more satisfactory.

The relief committee held its regular meeting Sunday morning and received reports from all the wards. The report shows that the work is progressing as well as could be expected, though there was some complaint. Relief stores are arriving rapidly and the chairman of the various districts were instructed to cease giving orders on local groceries and other stores, and to issue them against the general relief supplies. A great many of the most deserving and needy will not apply for relief and a great number of the unworthy are trying to take advantage of the situation to lay in stores.

The board of health has begun a systematic effort to obtain the names of the dead so that the information can be used for legal purposes and for life insurance settlements. Charles E. Doherty will be stationed at the headquarters of the central relief committee to receive sworn statements in lieu of the coroner's certificates. Persons who have left the city but are in possession of information concerning the dead are requested to send sworn statements to Mr. Doherty.

The Ursuline convent and academy, in charge of the sisters of St. Angeli, proved a haven of refuge for nearly 1000 homeless and storm driven unfortunates. The stories of this one night within the convent walls reads like the wildest dream of a novelist, but the half can never be told. Every man, woman and child that was brought to the convent or drifted there on the raging torrent could tell of an experience that would be well worth its publication.

The convent, with its many associate buildings, cottages, etc., occupies four blocks of grounds extending from Avenue N to O, and Rosenberg avenue to Twenty-seventh street. The grounds are, or rather were, surrounded by a ten foot brick wall that has withstood the severest storms in Galveston's history up to the destructive hurricane that swept the island last Saturday night. This wall is now a crumbled mass of brick with the exception of a few small sections that stand like marking pillars to show where the property line should be.

No one was refused admittance to the sheltering institution on this night of nights. Negroes and whites were taken in without question and the asylum was thrown open to all who sought its protecting wings. Angels of mercy went through the army of sufferers whispering words of cheer, offering what scant clothing could be found in this house of charity and calmly admonishing the terrorstricken creatures to have faith in God and pray that His holy will be done.

In contrast with this quiet, saintly and loving spirit of the nuns the hundred or more negroes grew wild as the storm raged and shouted and sang in true camp meeting style until the nerves of the other refugees were shattered and a panic seemed imminent. It was then that Mother Superioress Joseph rang the chapel bell and caused a hush of the pandemonium. When quiet had been restored the mother addressed the negroes and told them it was no time nor place for such scenes, that if they wanted to pray they should do so from their hearts and that the center of all things would hear their offerings above the roar of the hurricane which raged with increased fury as she spoke to the awe-stricken assemblage. The negroes were quieted and the people calmed.

The panic had been precipitated by the falling of the north wall of that section of the building in which the negroes had sought refuge. Order and silent prayer was brought about by this noble woman's sweet determination and great presence of mind.

Families that had been separated by this merciless and devastating conflict of the elements were united by the cruel waters of the gulf tossing them into this haven of refuge. What scenes, what heartrending pictures these unions presented as the half dead, mangled and bruised were rescued and dragged from the raging waters by the more fortunate members of their own family mourned as victims of the storm.

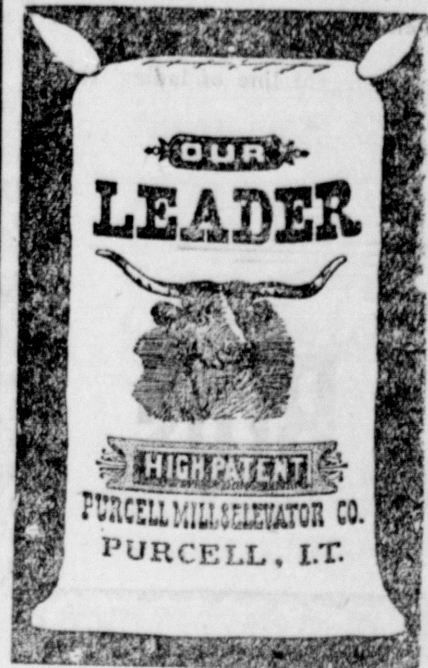

Mother Joseph, in speaking of the incidents of the night within the convent walls, said she believed it was the first time in the history of the world that a babe had been born in a nun's cell in a convent. And the christening, for no one expected to live to see the light of day, and it was voted that these infants should not leave the world as they had entered without baptism. Regardless of the religious belief of the parents, a house dedicated to God and charity had afforded shelter to the storm victim mothers and they felt in their hearts that the good sisters should administer the baptismal, which is administered in time of great danger, the presence of clergymen not being required.

The names of the mothers and the children could not be learned by the reporter who visited the institution, with the exception of Mrs. William Henry Heldeman, who was one of the mothers and whose new born babe was christened William Henry. The experiences of this mother, if they could be reduced to words, would read like the wildest fiction. Only a chapter was learned by the reporter.

Mrs. Heldeman was thrown on the mercies of the storm when her home went down and was swept away. The family had been separated when they started to abandon their home to the greed of the battling storm. When Mrs. Heldeman was carried away on the roof of a wrecked cottage she lost all trace of the other members of the family but never lost faith and courage. The roof struck some obstruction and the next instant Mrs. Heldeman was hurled from her improvised raft and landed in a trunk which was rocked on the surging waters. Cramped up in the trunk the poor woman suffering the agonies of accouchement, was protected to a limited extent and was afforded some warmth. On went the trunk, tossed high on the treacherous sea, bumping against driftwood, until the crude bark hurled against the Ursuline convent walls and was hauled into the building.

The little babe was born a few hours later, and while the good sisters and some of the women in the building were attending to the mother and child, another chapter in this family history was being enacted just within the convent walls. In a tree in the convent yard a young man, a brother of Mrs. Heldeman, battled with the wind and destructive waters, while clinging fast to a limb of the tree which swayed and bowed to the mighty wind. He knew not where he was. He could barely discern the outlines of the academy building, but did not know it was a haven where shelter was awaiting him. While combating with his chances of life or death he heard the plaintive cry of a child nearby. Reaching out with one hand he caught the dress of a little tot who, childlike, cried out "Me swimming." The child had run the mill race buoyed by the force of the storm and had not had time to realize his peril. The young man in the tree was Mrs. Heldeman's brother and the child which providence had sent to him on the waves was Mrs. Heldeman's little son.

A few minutes afterwards a rescuing party was sent out from the convent in response to cries for help, found the young man and his nephew and brought them to the sheltering institution. The reunion of at least a part of the family followed a few minutes later. It was a scene which can best be described by drawing the curtain around the little group in the nun's cell.

Another family reunion which ranked among the thousand or more pitying sights presented under the dim lights of the blessed candles in the edifice was the meeting of Mr. and Mrs. James Irwin, who were swept from their home on Twenty-fourth street, each having mourned the other as lost.

When Mr. Irwin was rescued and brought in out of the storm he carried

TUESDAY, SEPT. 18 1900

University Day.

This paper is in receipt of an interesting circular from Dallas announcing the date and general program of the Second Annual University of Texas day at the Dallas Fair. The day set is Oct. 13, 1900. This movement, though but a year old, has attained great proportions and bids fair to be one of the most potent factors in the upbuilding of the University of Texas and is already doing more than any other one thing to bring into oneness of purpose and sympathy the many thousand ex-students of the University of Texas, who are scattered all over the state.

Last year a tremendous crowd attended the reunion at Dallas, and many strong speeches were delivered, a good football game was had and bouquet at night was well attended.

This year, according to the announcement of the management, will be on a larger scale than last year; a foot-ball game has been arranged between the teams of the University of Texas and Vanderbilt University. A large delegation from Vanderbilt will attend, with bouquet and speeches, and the biggest Fair and Exposition south of St. Louis all turned over to the ex-students of the University, no doubt a most entertaining day will be had.

We are asked to invite all ex-students and alumni of the University of Texas to be present.

PROCLAMATION.

It is hereby ordered that the recommendations of the city health officer appearing below be rigidly observed.

J. S. Mooring,
Mayor.

To the Hon. Mayor of the City of Bryan.

I most respectfully urge that immediate steps be taken to put sewers of this city in good sanitary condition, and to that end I hereby recommend that the city scavenger be instructed to give the cleaning of sewers precedence over all other work and that during the remainder of the heated term he be ordered to thoroughly clean the sewers the first thing each morning; that they be flushed Monday, Wednesday and Friday of each week and carbolic Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday of each week. I suggest in connection herewith that if the scavenger will report to me once each day, which he should be instructed to do, I will give him instructions as to each day's work.

I further recommend that you instruct the city marshal to enforce violations of the sanitary ordinances and to make arrests in each and every violation. This should especially apply to putting of slop, trash, or refuse matter of any character in the sewers, and to public privies which are kept in unclean condition for days. All public privies should be cleaned twice each week and limed or carbolic once each day.

I further suggest that this communication be published in the papers and that you publish a proclamation covering these recommendations, which should also apply to private property in all parts of the city which stands in need of sanitation, and I most respectfully urge that in your good judgment you make further recommendations as to sanitary matters in our city. I am, very respectfully,

Geo. R. Tabor, M. D.,
City Health Officer.

about his benumbed body only an old corn sack which one of the male workmen of the convent had charitably provided. The only dry garment to be found in the house of the sisters of charity at that time was a nun's garb. It was no time for jest or humor with tragedies on every side, and when he donned this religious garb there was none in the vast assemblage of unfortunates who even cast a smile. During the long hours of the night of horrors Mr. Irwin went about the building rendering valuable assistance to fellow-men and in his heart offering a prayer of thanksgiving to the blessed heart who had clothed him in his hour of distress. He left the institution garbed as a sister of charity.

NO SUCH AMOUNT.

Governor Sayers Denied Reports as to Money He Has Received.

Houston, Sept. 17.—The following note was sent to the Associated Press correspondent at this point from Austin at the request of Governor Sayers:

"Reports sent out from this place by whomsoever may, that $800,000 or $900,000 has already been paid in, are absolutely false and made without authority and calculated to do great harm to the needy sufferers on our coast. No such sum of money has been received or anything approaching it."

It is believed that the stories are found to have done great harm in that they have prevented the contribution of money which is so sorely needed at Galveston.

Trains Soon to Run.

Galveston, Sept. 17.—General Manager Polk of the Santa Fe states that the bridge across the bay would be repaired sufficiently to permit the passage of trains by Wednesday or Thursday at the very latest.

THOMAS COLT DEAD.

He Was a Man on Whom Was Made a New Nose and Face.

New York, Sept. 17.—The Bellevue hospital patient known as the man with the iron mask, is dead. Thomas Oliver Colt was his name. He was related to the family of gunmakers of that name and was born in Connecticut.

At the age of 15, while playing ball, he was struck in the face with a bat; his cheek bones being fractured and his nose broken. Erysipelas followed and the nose was lost, as was a portion of his face. He was brought to Bellevue hospital by his parents, the head of the surgical division of that institution being Prof. Thomas C. Sabine, who heard the story and said he would make the boy a nose.

The result was the first Sabine operation as it is now known. Colts left hand was placed on his face and the third finger relieved of the nail and placed at the bridge of the nose. It took two months to grow there, while it was held in position by a plaster cast and then it was cut from the hand at the second joint. Thirty-two operations, and two years in the hospital gave a new face to Colt.

He married in 1896 and the latter part of the year he killed his wife and attempted suicide. He was given 15 years for the crime and pardoned after serving two years. He died of Bright's disease.

Fatal Shooting Affray.

Covington, Ga., Sept. 17.—Colonel Usher Thomason, in command of the Second Georgia regiment, shot and perhaps fatally wounded Otto Fowler here. Both men were armed, but Fowler was prevented from shooting Colonel Thomason by his (Fowler's) brother, who was with him. The shooting took place in front of Fowler's residence. The trouble between the two men is said to be of long standing. Colonel Thomason's home is at Madison.

Indian Territory Population.

Claremore, Sept. 17.—The United States supervisor for the Indian Territory gives the total population at 400,000, divided as follows: Cherokees and freedmen, 34,000; Creeks, 10,000; Creek freedmen, 5,000; Choctaws, 15,000; Choctaw freedmen, 4,150; Chickasaws, 6,000; Chickasaw freedmen, 4,500; Seminoles, 2,000; Senecas, Wyandottes, Shawnees, Peorias and other smaller tribes, 25,000; white citizens and negroes, not citizens of any Indian nation, 314,000.

New Mexico Grew at Paris.

Santa Fe, Sept. 17.—New Mexico at the Paris exposition, it is just learned, was awarded third place among the mineral exhibits of the world. It was also awarded the first place for copper, the finest specimen coming from the Dundee mine in Grant county.

Well Known Art Critic.

New York, Sept. 17.—John Randolph, a well known art critic of this city, was killed by a fall down stairs in his residence here. He for years had been the purchasing art critic for the Goulds, Huntingtons and several other prominent families.

Harry Brown Killed.

Columbia, S. C., Sept. 17.—Harry A. Brown, an English artist, was shot and killed at Rock Hill Saturday morning. The coroner's jury found that Brown had been killed by Paul R. Bratton and that John Bratton was an accessory.

Susan Anthony Ill.

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 17.—Susan B. Anthony, the woman's suffragist, is ill at her home on Madison street. She is confined to her room, but her condition is not alarming. She is 80 years old.

John Shannon Dead.

Atlanta, Sept. 17.—John P. Shannon, supreme dictator of the Knights of Honor of the United States, died at Elberton, Ga., Sunday. He was a past grand master of Masons.

A Correction.

The following letter is self explanatory. The Eagle takes pleasure in making the correction:

Wanted an Order From Bunyan.

One would suspect a hoax in the latest story of the Romeike clipping bureau, were it not that the publisher, R. H. Russell, stands sponsor for the tale. He received from the bureau a letter addressed: "John Bunyan, Esq., care Mr. R. H. Russell." After consideration, since Mr. Bunyan could not be reached by post, the seal was broken. The envelope inclosed a newspaper review of "The Life of Mr. Badman," by John Bunyan, and the enterprising bureau inquired: "Will you not give me an order to send you all the reviews and notices which are now appearing about your new book?"

PARKS & WALDROP,

MEN'S OUTFITTERS

Dr. A. M. Simms, pastor of the Baptist church preached a very strong and effective sermon at the Baptist church Sunday morning, his theme being the story of the good Samaritan as applied to the distress of the people of Galveston and vicinity. The subject was handled in a masterly manner and the special application appropriate and effective.
In response to inquiry as to the members in the congregation who were willing to provide homes for some of the sufferers and supply them with food and clothing if necessary, until they are able to recover the terrible ordeal of the storm, homes were secured for thirty or forty persons.

Cicero Medlock, a negro, forty of fifty years old and an employee of the compress, was struck by a train some time Saturday night and died from his injuries. He was found Sunday morning by the H. & T. C. track with his skull and several ribs crushed and his left arm and left hip broken.

W. E. Harris received a telegram from his house in Galveston yesterday telling him to stay at home, as they could not ship goods. Mr Harris thinks he will get out again in ten days, as the temporary railroad bridge, he thinks, will be completed in that time.

J. R. Collier of Mumford spent Sunday here, coming in by way of the C. W. & B. V. Mr. Collier says he expects to make Bryan his tradng point hereafter, and after Christmas he expects to move his family to Bryan.

Mrs. A. K. Addison, wife of Sergeant Addison of the White farm, arrived from Huntsville Sunday and will remain in the city until cooler weather prevails before joining her husband.

COAL STRIKE IS ON.

Most of the Anthracite Mines in Pennsylvania Are Idle.

FEW ARE WORKING.

In the Scranton and Wilkesbarre Districts the Tie Up Is Complete.

Estimated That 100,000
Men Are Not Working.

Philadelphia, Sept. 17.—Reports from the anthracite coal fields in this state indicate a tie up, caused by the strike for higher wages of more than 140,000 mine workers, is at least as complete as the leaders of the United Mine Workers of America claimed at any time. Campanies and individuals owning mines who had claimed their workings would operate as usual, despite the strike order, apparently reckoned without accurate knowledge of the attitude of their men.

It is true some mines in the Hazleton region are working with as high as 80 per cent of their men at work, nevertheless, the greater number of the district are idle.

In Scranton and Wilkesbarre districts the tie up is practically complete. As was expected the Schuylkill region with Pittsboro for a central point, was at work with very few defections. These men have not the same grievances that prevail in other districts and if they go on strike it will be largely through sympathy.

President Mitchell, of United Mine Workers, who has established headquarters at Hazleton and is personally directing the strike, estimates over 100, 000 men have struck and that 15,000
more will join by tomorrow.

ABOUT HAZLETON.

Only One Mine Has a Full Force Digging Coal.

Hazleton, Pa., Sept. 17.—The great anthracite coal strike began today throughout the entire hard coal region of Pennsylvania. The launching of the strike in this district was attended by varying success. With the exception of Coxes' colliery at Beaver Meadow, the entire territory known as the south side, which includes about 12 mining towns, completely tied up. This territory is strongly organized, which accounts for the general suspension of work.

On the north side, which takes in 10 towns, and which is well organized, the conditions at an early hour this morning were almost the reverse of those prevailing on the south side. In that territory nearly every colliery started up but only one operating was able to muster a full complement of men. Several collieries after starting to work had to suspend because of the lack of men.

Not a single case of violence has yet been reported.

Kruger's European Trip.

New York, Sept. 17.—All doubts as to Mr. Kruger's intentions of proceeding to Europe are now at rest. In reply to a telegram sent by The Express the Transvaal consul general stated that the object of Mr. Kruger's proposed European trip was personal and not political.
The voyage was to be made for the sake of his health. Mr. Kruger declined to say whether the moment was opportune for a statement of a political character.

Kruger Going to Holland.

Lisbon, Sept. 17.—The papers here say that Mr. Kruger will take the German steamer Herzog at Lorenzo Marques his destination being Holland by way of Marseilles.

Christian DeWet Reported Killed.

London, Sept. 17.—It is rumored in Johannesburg that General Christian DeWet, the Boer guerilla, was killed on Sept. 7 near Potchefstroom.

Killed His Sister-in-Law.

Albuquerque, Sept. 17.—News has reached here of another killing in Grant county, which makes the total run up to nearly a score in 15 days. Frank Brito, a rancher living near Pinos Altos, shot and instantly killed his sister-in-law, Delfine Calles, and then escaped to the hills. He finally concluded he would be safer from the rope by giving himself up to the authorities. He claims that on approaching his house in the dark he saw his wife sitting on a man's knee.
He made a noise and the man hearing it ran out of the front door, the sister-in-law following him. Brito fired at the man and killed Miss Calles.

Noted Chicago Policeman Dead.

Chicago, Sept. 17.—Police Lieutenant Edward J. Steele died suddenly here.
Lieutenant Steele was the man who led the police up Desplaines street to the scene of the Haymarket riot, his company being the head of the column that advanced to disperse the anarchists, who were making the speeches. He was prostrated by the force of the bomb explosion and had one of his wrists broken. Nine out of 24 of his company were seriously injured.

Marcus Daly Seriously Ill.

New York, Sept. 17.—Marcus Daly, the millionaire copper mine owner of Montana, is very seriously ill at Hotel Netherland in this city. Mr. Daly arrived here on the Etruria a week ago.
His ailment is heart trouble.

Frost in Wisconsin.

La Crosse, Sept. 17.—The first heavy frost of the season along the Mississippi valley was reported this morning.
The temperature fell from 80 degrees to 40 in two days.

PEOPLE LEAVING STRICKEN ISLAND.

More People Crowd the Landing Than Can Get Off.

SOME PITIABLE SIGHTS REVEALED

The Parting of Relatives as the Boat Leaves Sad Indeed.

SCURRY NEED CASH TO PAY LABORERS.

He Makes an Appeal for Money to Pay Men Cleaning Away Debris. People Become Insane Over the Loss of Relatives.

New Orleans, Sept. 17.—A special to The Picayune from Galveston says: The steady stream of refugees from Galveston is keeping up. There is not a departing train from across the bay which is not packed to its platforms. Today there were many who wanted to get away and who were not able. There will be refugees leaving for a week to come.

No sadder sight could be imagined than the picture presented today by a boatload of refugees, when the ropes were cast off and the craft swung out into the bay and away from the desolate city. There was not a face that was not turned toward the ruin. There was not an eye that was not moistened with tears. So great has been the rush to leave behind the scene of the storm that the Lawrence, the boat which connects with trains at Texas City, has failed to leave her wharf a single day without denying passage to a portion of those who wanted to get away.

Today I stood upon the deck and watched a hundred men who had been unable to board her, as they stood with packed valises on the wharf and watched her fade into the distance. Many of these men will camp upon the landing and be ready to board her as soon as she is ready to receive passengers for her next trip.

The partings at the waterside are pitiful in the extreme. Husbands come to the gangplank and kiss their weeping wives goodbye, turning back to the hard work of reconstruction which confronts them with breaking hearts. Scores of women, overcome at the last moment, are cared for by strange hands, while those who love them, bound to Galveston by necessity, can do no more than watch from afar and pray.

Today I watched frail women, weakened by days of insufficient nourishment and nights of sleeplessness, struggle aboard the Lawrence with a baby on one arm and carrying a heavy valise, while two or three little children tugged at her dress. In ordinary times they would have scarce have lifted the valise without help. The power which sustains them is beyond mortal ken.

At Texas City the Philadelphia North American has established a relief depot which is doing splendid work. This journal has sent down a trainload of supplies, a staff of special correspondents under Julian Hawthorne, a corps of physicians under E. R. Kennedy, the house surgeon of the Jefferson hospital and a band of trained nurses under Miss Catherine E. Rogers, a graduate of the same institution. The special reached Texas City last night. Instead of waiting until Galveston was reached to begin work, immediate steps were taken to care for the refugees at the bay terminal of the Galveston, Houston and Henderson and during the night hundreds of hungry refugees were fed, while numbers of sick and wounded were cared for.

There is plenty of work on hand for ten times the force of laborers at present employed. The area which has as yet been untouched embraces four and a half miles frontage on the beach and bay, and before it is cleared the bodies which lie rotting beneath the tangled timbers will have fallen to pieces. Even now there is no semblance of humanity in the gruesome things which are uncovered by the workers.

Adjutant General Scurrey who is in supreme control now, is unable to pay the laborers for their services. He ardently desires to do so and today impressed upon the committee the need for money. Cash contributions will be more welcome than supplies in any form. As a matter of fact, there are enough provisions on hand ahead to feed every body in Galveston for a week. There is a great deal of trouble in properly distributing supplies, the rush at the depots being as great today as at any time since they were opened.

In line before the relief stations today I saw women of evident refinement. They were jammed in between negroes and the lowest classes of whites. It must have been a terrible struggle for them to accept succor in such a guise, but there was no alternative before them. They had to get in line or starve. I saw them, now and then, wipe furtive ly tears from their eyes, and noticed their hands clutching convulsively, but they kept their places, buoyed up by the thought of the hungry babies at the place which had once been home.

It has indeed been a divine mercy that the weather since the storm has been clear and dry. Had it rained a single day the suffering would have been terrible, for there is scarcely a whole roof in Galveston.

There are now about 200 soldiers in Galveston doing guard and police duty. The camp on the wharf, between the Galveston Red Snapper company and the foot of Tremont street, is being rapidly put into shape and the soldiers will soon be comfortably housed.

There are now in Galveston five commands—the Dallas rough riders, Capt. Ormonde Paget, with 46 men; the Houston light guards, Captain George McCormick, with 45 men; the Galveston sharpshooters, Captain A. Bunschell, with 35 men, and battery D, of Houston, Captain G. A. Adams, with 15 men, and troop A, Houston cavalry, commanded by Lieutenant Breedlove, with 20 men. Captain McCormick of the Houston light guards, is acting major commanding the battalion. He told me that he expected the men would be needed in Galveston for several weeks yet. They are doing splendid work and he was more than satisfied with them.

There are numerous cases of insanity in Galveston as a result of the bereavement sustained by the survivors. Judge John Reagan, an old citizen of Galveston, is in a pitiable condition. Judge Reagan lost every relative in Galveston. He sits hour by hour in pathetic silence. Then he bursts out laughing and his laughter is followed by tears. Perhaps his insanity is a blessing.

Not 25 people got into Galveston today from the outside world. The lines are being drawn tight and pressing indeed must be the business which gives one safe passage.

It is estimated that about 5000 people have departed from the city since the storm, including women and children.

THE KNOWN DEAD.

The List up to This Time Numbers 4078 Persons.

Houston, Sept. 17.—The latest list of the dead at Galveston disaster, printed by the Post, revised to date, accounts for 4078 persons. The Post states its source of information is very good, and that no persons whose names have been heard from and that a great number of the names have been furnished by relatives of those dead.

The number of people who have left Galveston is stated to be 8000 of these about 5000 now in Houston, being cared for. Others have gone into the interior of the state or to other states.

The total number of people fed in 10 wards at Galveston on Saturday was 16,144 persons, estimating four persons to each one applying. Sunday the number increased slightly.

Supplies are now flowing in steady and all orders for provisions and clothing are being given on general stores in the city.

More Troops Needed.

Dallas, Sept. 17.—More troops are called for service to relieve the worn out guards at Galveston. A part of the Trezevant rifles left on another relief train with supplies. The local relief committee is providing means for taking care of refugees that are pouring into Dallas.

Mississippi Triple Lynching.

Tonica, Miss., Sept. 17.—Frank Brown, William Brown and David Moore, negroes, under indictment for murder, were lynched early Saturday morning by a masked mob composed of about 60 men. The negroes were indicted for separate offenses and had been in the county jail here for some time. The mob was well organized, was quiet in its movements. The door of the jail was forced open and the negroes were securely bound.

Dr. Wilmot Will Not Accept.

Austin, Sept. 17.—Dr. W. P. Wilmot, a prominent banker of this city, who is slated for the Republican nomination for governor by the state convention which meets in San Antonio tomorrow, stated positively that he would not accept the nomination should he be tendered it. He says his business interests require all of his attention.

Eldon Bank Robber Arrested.

Quincy, Ill., Sept. 17.—The sheriff of Wapello County, Iowa, and a Pinkerton detective arrested Richard Dodd, of Clayton. He is one of the men implicated in burglarizing the bank at Eldon, Ia., in 1897, and is the last of the gang to be arrested. He will be taken to Iowa.
